Items of Note:

- The library has teamed up with Gateway Seniors Without Walls to provide a bi-monthly lecture series. “Gateway Speaker Series @ The Old Town Public Library” hosted two speakers in January. Our first speaker, Sue Hamlett from PCHC shared information about the Affordable Health Care Act, with suggestions for navigating the Marketplace. There was lively discussion among the participants, and all appreciated the opportunity to gather information pertaining to a very important issue. Our second speaker, Abby Morton, an independent financial planner, shared 10 tips for investing.
- Our January Tech Tuesday was enlivened by our guest speaker, Jared Leadbetter from the State Library. Jared brought a case full of tablets, Kindles, Nooks, etc. for patrons to “play” with, and shared lots of useful information about e-devices. Jared is a dynamic speaker, and several participants asked that we bring him back!
- Tuesday Forum featured local talent, Julie Monroe, for a wonderful sing-a-long. The food was good, the entertainment fantastic, and we had lots of happy participants—what more could you ask for on a cold and snowy Tuesday in January?
- The floors on both the main level and the downstairs were stripped and waxed this month. It has been some time since this was last done, and the hope is we can get back to regular maintenance of our floors.
